

Media Freedom: Trends in the OSCE

Karin Deutsch Karlekar, PhD
Freedom House

21 Feb 2013

Media Freedom in the OSCE

- “ I) Introduction
- “ II) Regional Overview
- “ III) Selected Case Studies
 - “ Concerns in established democracies
 - “ Countries with limited press freedom
- “ IV) Conclusions and Recommendations

I) Introduction

- “ The Freedom of the Press index
 - “ For past 32 years, has assessed the degree of print, broadcast, and internet freedom in every country in the world, analyzing the events and developments of each calendar year

- “ Methodology: 3 Categories, 109 indicators
 - “ Legal: laws and regulations, and their use against media
 - “ Political: editorial pressure, censorship, attacks on journalists
 - “ Economic: structure, transparency, concentration, etc.

- “ Scores and Status
 - “ 0 – 30: Free
 - “ 30 – 60: Partly Free
 - “ 60 – 100: Not Free

Media Freedom in the OSCE

- “ I) Introduction
- “ II) Regional Overview
- “ III) Selected Case Studies
 - “ Concerns in established democracies
 - “ Countries with limited press freedom
- “ IV) Conclusions and Recommendations

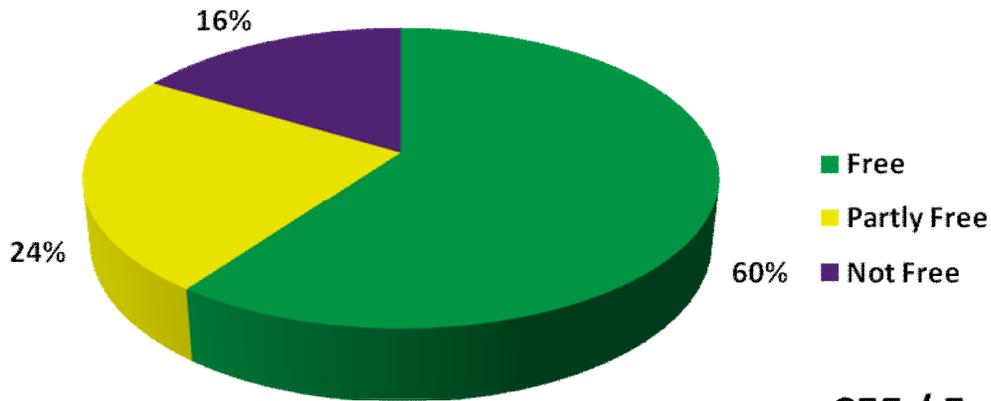

II) Regional Overview

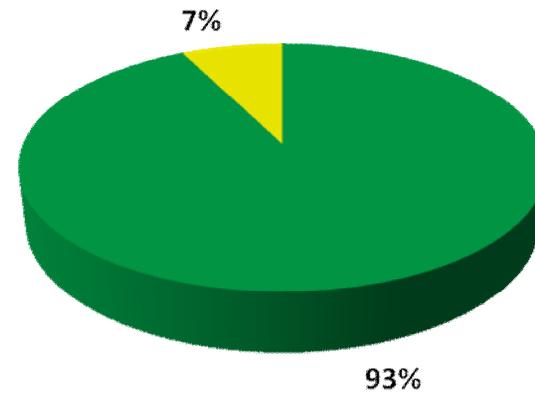

II) Regional Overview

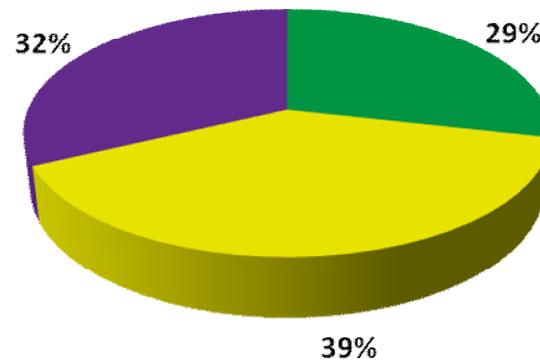

OSCE countries

Western Europe, US, CAN

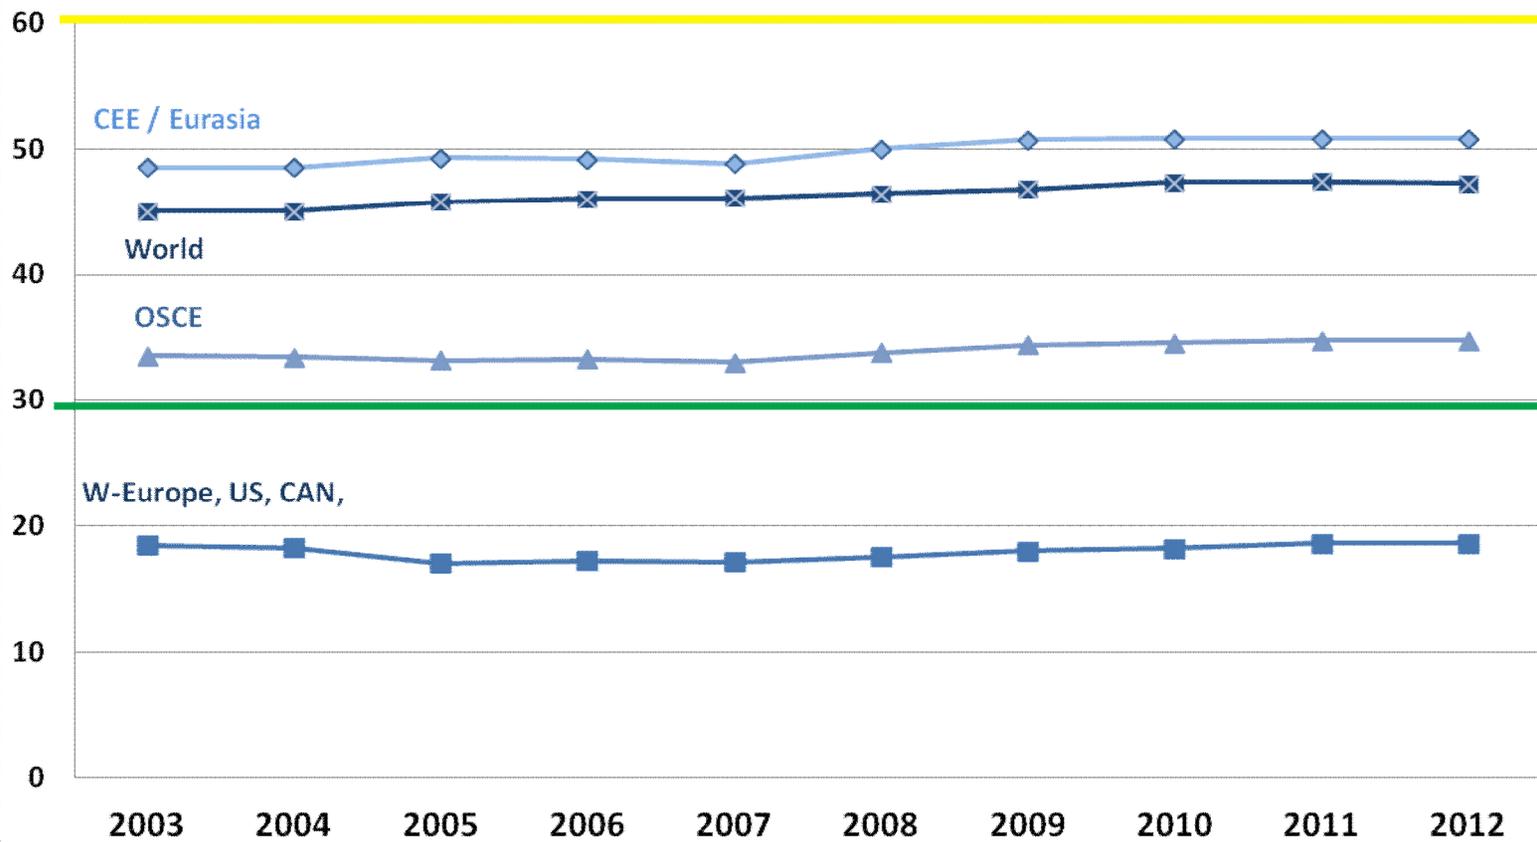

CEE / Eurasia

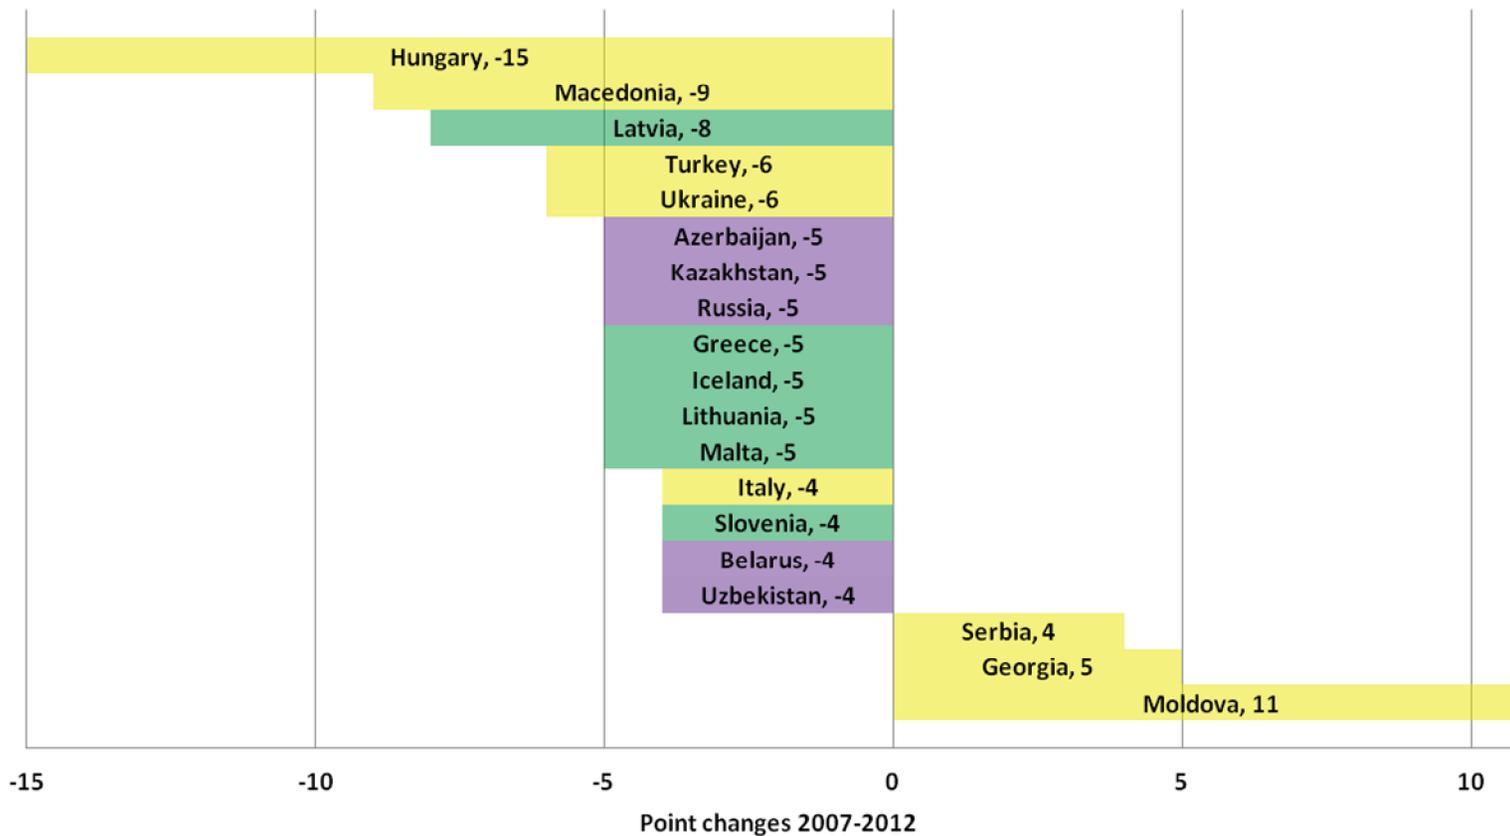

II) Regional Overview

Average press freedom scores 2003-2012

II) Regional Overview

Trends between 2007-2012

Media Freedom in the OSCE

- “ I) Introduction
- “ II) Regional Overview
- “ III) Selected Case Studies
 - “ Concerns in established democracies
 - “ Countries with limited press freedom
- “ IV) Conclusions and Recommendations

III) Selected Case Studies

“ Concerns in established democracies

“ United Kingdom

- “ Expansive libel laws, use of so-called super-injunctions and gagging orders to prevent coverage
- “ Media ethics/regulation and the Leveson Inquiry

“ Italy

- “ Significant concentration of ownership and influence under former Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi
- “ Use of libel laws to limit free speech

III) Selected Case Studies

- “ Concerns in established democracies
 - “ Hungary
 - “ Unique 13 point decline between 2010-2012
 - “ New media laws
 - “ Broad restrictions on content
 - “ Licensing of print and online media
 - “ Large fines for unbalanced reporting
 - “ New regulatory body
 - “ Increasing political control and influence in public media

III) Selected Case Studies

- “ Countries with limited press freedom

- “ Turkey

- “ Use of restrictive laws

- “ Provisions of the penal code and antiterrorism legislation

- “ Highest number of imprisoned journalists in the world

- “ Connected to deep state trials and Kurdish militant groups

- “ Increased self-censorship by journalists

- “ Internet censorship

III) Selected Case Studies

“ Countries with limited press freedom

“ Russia

“ Broadcast media ownership firmly under state control

“ Control over television, which is dominant medium

“ Judiciary subservient to the executive branch and use of laws to punish journalists

“ Impunity for harassment and murder of journalists

“ Moves to increase official control over internet

III) Selected Case Studies

- “ Countries with limited press freedom

- “ Azerbaijan

- “ Media landscape dominated by the state

- “ Most broadcast media under official control

- “ Legal and physical harassment of journalists

- “ Record high in journalist imprisonments in 2012

- “ High level of physical attacks

- “ Increasing focus on controlling internet

- “ Imprisonment of bloggers

III) Selected Case Studies

“ Countries with extremely limited press freedom

“ “Worst of the Worst” —3 of bottom 10 worldwide are in the OSCE

“ Belarus

“ Draconian media laws, intimidation of foreign and local journalists, monopoly on broadcast media

“ Uzbekistan

“ All local media linked to the state, insult of president punishable by up to 5 years in prison, very few independent journalists

“ Turkmenistan

“ Absolute monopoly on national media, extralegal threats, harassment of journalists, restricted access for foreign correspondents

Media Freedom in the OSCE

- “ I) Introduction
- “ II) Regional Overview
- “ III) Selected Case Studies
 - “ Concerns in established democracies
 - “ Countries with limited press freedom
- “ IV) Conclusions and Recommendations

IV) Conclusions

“ Need for vigilance in established democracies

- “ Backsliding in democracies: threats to freedom of the press remain a concern
- “ The economic crisis has posed new challenges and threatens print media diversity and sustainability

“ Methods of control continuously changing

- “ More subtle methods by authoritarian and semi-democratic governments
- “ Misuse of licensing and regulatory frameworks
- “ Moves to control new media and internet

IV) Recommendations

- “ Reform of laws in established democracies
 - “ Decriminalization of libel/defamation
 - “ Encouragement of self-regulation as best practice
 - “ Removal of licensing/restrictions on print and internet
- “ Increased pressure on governments that restrict media freedom
 - “ Diplomatic pressure
 - “ Aid conditionality (example of MCA in US)
 - “ Support for independent media and journalists
 - “ Focus on keeping the internet free of state control

For additional information:

Please visit our website at www.freedomhouse.org or email Karin Deutsch Karlekar at karlekar@freedomhouse.org

