

OSCE PA Special Rapporteur on Digital Agenda Miladinovic visits Denmark

Miladinovic meeting with MP Christoffer Aagaard Mølsen, 21 January

The Special Rapporteur on Digital Agenda, Stefana Miladinovic, visited Denmark on 20-22 January to explore and study the country's digital strategies and action plans.

Miladinovic, Head of the Serbian delegation to the OSCE PA, held meetings with Christoffer Aagaard Mølsen who serves as his party's spokesperson on IT and telecommunications in the Danish Parliament, as well as with officials from the Danish Agency for Digitisation, the Confederation of Danish Industry, Copenhagen City Hall administration and the Danish Parliament.

Discussions focused on Denmark's digital path over recent decades and efforts to provide more efficient digital solutions and services for citizens. Officials outlined the digital strategies implemented by the government, local administration and the private sector. Exchanges also touched upon future challenges, in particular digital security, data protection and the need to safeguard the widespread confidence and trust in the public sector.

"Denmark continues to be a digital frontrunner, making it a role model for other countries," said Miladinovic. She continued: "While we must remain mindful of potential threats and continue efforts to strengthen our common efforts to mitigate security risks, it is clear that digital transformation is having a positive impact not only on business and trade but also on the individual and society as a whole. Denmark is teaching us that digitalization is unavoidable, and I am eager to continue working on facilitating co-operation and discussions among parliamentarians internationally aimed at increasing awareness and information exchange."

Miladinovic also held bilateral meetings with OSCE PA Secretary General Roberto Montella and Serbian Ambassador to Denmark Jasmina Mitrovic-Maric.

From the International Secretariat, the visit was supported by Communications and Press Officer Anna Di Domenico and Research Assistant Roberto Ferrari.
