OSCE election observation discussed in Athens

Representatives of the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly and the OSCE ODIHR met in Athens on 11 March under the auspices of the Greek Chairmanship to discuss election observation co-operation between the PA and ODIHR. The OSCE Chair-in-Office, the Foreign Minister of Greece Dora Bakoyannis, briefly addressed the participants, highlighting the importance of the co-operation.

The OSCE Chairmanship was represented by Head of the Greek Delegation to the OSCE PA, Panayotis Skandalakis, and Chairperson of the Permanent Council, Ambassador Mara Marinaki. The Assembly was represented by President Emeritus Goran Lennmarker and Deputy Secretary General Tina Schøn. The Director of the ODIHR, Ambassador Janez Lenarcic, and OSCE PA Secretary General, Spencer Oliver, also participated in the meeting.

The participants went through the 1997 Co-operation Agreement, discussing how to improve co-operation in all phases of election observation. The PA representatives stressed the need to adhere to the 1997 Agreement in letter and spirit and expressed their regret that the ODIHR has failed to comply with key provisions of the Agreement, including particularly the sharing of timely and complete information from long term observers.

Although there was some disagreement about the authority of the Special Co-ordinator, appointed by the Chair-in-Office, all interlocutors agreed that it is the mandate of the Special Co-ordinator to deliver the statement assessing the elections on behalf of the OSCE Chairmanship. The ODIHR agreed that they will fully share all information from the long term observers in a timely manner, including regular field reports, with the OSCE PA. They also agreed that a staff member of the PA would be hosted in the ODIHR core team office with access to all information and activities. In addition, it was agreed that drafting on the Special Co-ordinator's statement would be started jointly between representatives of the OSCE PA and the ODIHR several days prior to the elections, the results of which will be shared with other appropriate observer groups as soon as possible.

The PA representatives considered the discussions to be a valuable step forward in resolving differences between the two OSCE Institutions, although some problems remain unresolved. The Greek Chairmanship promised to follow the implementation of these agreements closely in the coming months.

Ambassador Christos Zacharakis, Special Envoy of the Chairmanship, chaired the meeting.
